HAPPENINGS:

Item: Betty Carter, director of the Family Institute of Westchester (Mt. Vernon, N.Y.), speaking at the annual meeting of the American Ass'n for Marriage & Family Therapy, reported that the high failure-rate for 2nd marriages results from traditional role-ideas leading step-parents to attempt disciplining a mate's children as if they were a natural parent.

Item: Lancet, a British medical journal, reports that clarinetists who play too often or too long may develop "clarinetists thumb" -- e.g., excessive stress & fatigue in the digit supporting the instrument.

Item: All domestic and international flights were cancelled one hour in the morning and one hour in the evening on October 25 so that India's Prime Minister Rajio Gandhi could without interruption practice his flying in order to maintain his pilot's license.

Item: Researchers at Duke University's Center for the Study of Aging & Human Development are predicting that "baby boomers" (persons born between 1946 & 1966) will be as a group suffering severe depression & committing suicide in great numbers after the year 2011.

Item: Exploration Co, a Texas oil company seeking asphalt deposits, has found what appears to be the second major gold & silver find in Texas, some 250 miles east of the previous major find at Presidio.

Item: The National Ozone Expedition (NOZE) to Antarctica in August to explore the even-worsening (for 10 years) spring hole in Earth's protective ozone-layer reports they strongly suspect chemical-processes, such as chloroflourocarbons released by man, are causing the ever-widening of the ozone hole.

Item: Dr. Eugene Courtiss (Boston) & Dr. I. Kellman Cohen (Medical College of Virginia) this year sent questionnaires to every plastic surgeon in the country, to which 40% (1400) replied, the replies indicating that 43% had done elective "cosmetic" work on spouses or children, and that almost 1/3 had undergone such for themselves.

LITERATE'S CORNER:

Us & the Living Earth

How it got here, where it's going, the plack of the Tree, and much else of deep and abiding interest to the Earth-Religionists among us is to be found in the following books by Tony Shearer, a Celtic-Lakota Shaman known in the Native American community as "Mythmaker".

THE PRAYING FLUTE - "Song of the Earth Mother" (A Bald Mountain Story), about Little Girl who became Flute Lady and then Old Flute Lady, could be a Bed-Time Story, a Campfire Story, Ritual Reading or a Teaching Story (It is all of these!) for all of us, Young or Old, who wish to better understand and be of help to The Earth Mother.

Having heard Tony "Pray" (Not play!) the song on his 100-plus-year-old, 5-hole, Lakota flute (The "scoring" is given in the book) and having seen its effects on animals (even via radio) and people, I could wish all in the Craft community knew the Story (all 87 pages of it) and would use the song often.

And then there's LORD OF THE DAWN - Quetzalcoatl, Tony's own Song-Telling of the Myths, History, and Prophecies of Mexico and Central America, along with their relationships to the Eagle Bowl (commonly, the "Aztec Calendar") and the current situation of Earth and Earth Mother and the "magic date" of August 16, 1987 (the Ending of the Fifth Sun).

There is more information and understanding to be gained (from an Earth-Religion viewpoint) from the 200 pages of Tony's story-song than from the aggregate of 100-plus scholarly tomes I've encountered on the topic of the history and traditions of the Americas' Land and Natives.

THE PRAYING FLUTE... (1975, Sun Publishing, 8½ x 11 paperback) @ $7.50 and LORD OF THE DAWN - Quetzalcoatl (1971, Naturegraph, 5½ x 8½ paperback) @ $8.50, by Tony Shearer, are findable at TRILOGY BOOKSTORE, 630 East 6th Avenue, Denver, CO ('phone 303-722-7612). If ordering by mail, enclose $2.00 per book extra for postage & handling.

ASK THE OLD MAN:

Question: What is likely to be the situation in America late November-early December?

Hexagram (Answer):

6	--------X		--- ---
5	--- ---		--- ---
4	--- ---	GOING	--- ---
3	--- ---X	TO	--------
2	--- ---		--- ---
1	--------		--------
	#27		#36
	The Corners of the Mouth (Providing Nourishment)		Darkening of the Light

Late November looks like a time of pressures to seek gratifications from non-nourishing sources on the one hand, combined with pressures to nourish others on the other hand, all this as a result of deep-level energy-arousals ("at the foot of the mountain, thunder").

BE CAREFUL OF YOUR WORDS, TEMPERATE IN YOUR ACTIVITIES (especially food-wise), AND GIVE ONLY SUCH AID TO OTHERS AS YOU CAN AFFORD--AND THIS ONLY TO THOSE WHO WILL ACTUALLY MAKE PRODUCTIVE USE OF IT. GIVE THOUGHT TO HIDDEN DANGERS!

Early December looks like a time when negative influences will be in ascendency and positions of power (though only temporarily) such that those guided by positive influences need to keep a low profile lest they be overcome before the negatives fall prey to their own chaos.

BE STEADY WITHIN YOURSELF AND YOUR DOINGS, EVEN IN THE FACE OF ADVERSE INFLUENCES; BUT DO NOT MAKE A FANFARE OF IT. ("Resist not evil.")

Perilous times requiring keeping one's balance and integrity in the face of apparent ascendency of "Dork Forces".

MAGICAL MEDICINE: Blending Chinese Medicine and Magic

In last month's article, I discussed problems that can arise when the water element is in excess, either on the physical and/or psycho-emotional levels, a condition referred to as dampness in Chinese Medicine.

Dampness, when in excess, could be considered excess yin = water, coming from deficient fire of the spleen (the spleen fire or yang has the function of moving or clearing and transforming dampness). Another cause of dampness can be deficient fire of the kidneys (whose role is to properly adjust the water metabolism and to keep the spleen fire burning appropriately).

In the example of headache, the spleen will be involved more often, except in adrenal weakness, which implies kidneys.

Symptoms of spleen excess dampness underlying headaches could be sinus congestion, facial swelling, feelings of tightness or pressure in the head, thirsty but doesn't want to drink, pasty white coating on the tongue, or yellow coat on tongue if heat is also present, insomnia, coughing up of excess mucus, heaviness of body tissue, heavy feelings to arms and legs, poor digestion where food lingers in the stomach, bloating of upper abdomen, excess gas or rumbling in the digestive - eliminative tract (called Borborygmus), and some types of constipation or diarrhea.

Attitude symptoms of spleen excess dampness might be sluggishness of the body or spirit, lack of motivation, excess mental activity or excess worry, signs of excess grief, (person may cry too easily), and cravings for sweets, breads or pasta.

Treatment in Chinese Medicine with herbs or acupuncture would be to move and clear or transform the dampness, and to nourish and build the spleen Yang (fire) and Chi (energy). Magically this can be done in the same way. Pull and clear the excess water by pulling it out directly, or by flowing it down through the intestines and kidney/bladder functions, especially where there is not sufficient urination (some people try to promote urination by drinking excess fluids, thereby weakening the kidneys and spleen by overwork when they may need only to re-direct the water) or there is constipation from dryness in the intestines.

Let's Talk Runes:

A customary and popular method of reading the runes involves a technique called casting. This method was used to clarify issues, cast lots, or make decisions. This method is fairly easy, though not always simple. This method also dates from over 2,000 years ago.

First decide the issue, or reason, for the casting. Then center yourself, while your spread out a cloth for the runes to be cast upon. For some people, this is an act of meditation or prayer. For beginners, I suggest a white cloth about two feet by two feet in size. The white cloth being a neutral, or safe color and large enough to allow the runes to fall as they may. Then grasp the bag of runes and either shake or upend the runes a few times, while focusing upon the issue at hand.

In older times, the caster would bid the god Odin to be present. This was for protection and advice, if requested. Also bear in mind that according to legend, it was Odin who brought the runes from the depths of chaos. They were brought forth for use as a tool for gods and humans alike. Thus to bid Odin welcome is also a matter of respect.

After shaking or stirring the runes, upend the bag over the cloth. Consider only those runes that fall runeside up, in the position that they have fallen in. One of the readers has expressed a way of interpreting those runes that fall sideways. This would apply to runes that seem to be neither fully upright or reversed.

If the opening of the rune is down, this would be a less likely to be effect. Although sideways runes can go either way, they show possibilities of influence or options.

Let's Talk Runes - cont'd

One of the runes that might present a puzzle is ODIN'S RUNE, the blank rune. Unless it is smoother, shinier, or different of color on the rune side, it might be a good idea to consider its influence when considering those runes that have become available to the matter at hand.

The blank rune is the only "wild rune" of the futhark. It belongs to no aettir. It's a representation of all and of nothing, of birth and of death. The potential symbolized by this rune is a notice to be willing to relinquish control. Some would say that this rune shows karma, that as we shift and evolve, so does karma shift and evolve. Nothing is preset in the future. It is written that when matters seem to be "hidden by the gods", what beckons is the creative power of the unknown. This rune is a test of faith and trust. As Mr. Blum wrote, "This Rune often calls for no less an act of courage than the empty-handed leap into the void."

When you are satisfied that you have considered the runes vs. the issue, then gather the runes and place them in the bag. Then gather the cloth and place it in the bag with the runes. It might be a good idea to thank Odin for his protection and advice, if you are comfortable with this idea. Remember, that by reading the runes, you are consulting your oracle. Not an outside god or other oracle. The Self teaches the self.

Thank you, Childwatcher. For your help with this month's column.

VOICES IN THE WIND:

The season of time in the lodges is coming. Now is the time of harvest. A time to store the grain, the fruits, the vegetables, and cure the meats. A time to look over and repair one's shelter. To provide for the safe keeping of the live-stock.

Autumn is beautiful. This is the dusk of the year's day. The animals are fattening up for hibernation. The birds are either preparing for winter or flying south with the sun. The trees and flowers show beauty and grace, while they die back and prepare to sleep. Without reservation, just con-structive acceptance.

Some people seek to dispell the cold wind and slower pace of life. They do not see the promise of Life and Spring in the reds, yellows and burnished golds of Autumn. The chance to do by not doing. To rest without hurry or plans for the immediate morning to follow.

The Winter, a time in the lodges, is a chance to relax, to rest. Prepare now, so that you may be able to enjoy the peace and serenity. To have the time to think and plan, not act fast. Think and plan for the activities for next Spring and Summer. So it is, as it has been, and as it should be.

NATURAL ODDITIES:

A number of years ago, researchers found that polar-bears' white hair wasn't actually white but instead was a complex translucent fiber designed to maximize light & heat absorption and retention.

Now, according to Leonard Winchester, Jr. of Science and Technology Corp. (Hampton, Virginia) and Raymond Leonard of Fairfield University (Fairfield, Conn.), the blue in blue-jays' feathers is not blue pigment but instead is created by unusual "light-scattering effects (Rayleigh scattering) created by alveolar cells in the feather-barbs.

Winchester says light-scattering is responsible for nearly all blues, most of the greens, and some of the purples in bird and animal colorations.

STAR-STUDIES:

The photographs of the core of Halley's comet obtained by 2 Russian and 1 European space-craft indicate the core to look like a pile of loose snow.

A couple of years ago, astronomers detected a "brown dwarf" star and thought they would find many more; however, according to the November 1st Science News, these celestial phenomena have turned out to be unexpectedly scarce.

VOICE OF THE TURTLE:

November Moon

Old Long-Neck has led the Vee's of his Clans Southward, the Power of their Wings hurrying tardy Lesser Birds to Safety in Warmer Climes, like Living Leaves upon the Winds, ahead of Goosefeather Snow, and Cold, and Stillness soon to Cover this Land.

And from that Northern Place that is not quite a Place, great Winter Eagle spreads snow-white Wings and comes Hunting down the Wind through Ice-Crystal Skies.

Thus comes Time-in-the-Lodges, that time in the Wheel of the Year that We, as Grandmother's Children, should Rest and Contemplate Our Place on the Wheel of Earth that is Grandmother's Body.

Such have been the Patterns of This Land and the Dwellers Herein for Millenium after Millenium, for as long as Anyone Cares to Remember.

Let Us, then, first Reflect on our Nature as Spirits having Bodies, our Bodies even so Composed of Cell-Bodies in turn themselves Homes for Individual Spirits--ALL of these Bodies made of the material of the Living Earth which is Grandmother's Body which She has Invited Us and the Other Spirits Likewise to Share and Enjoy.

Having so Reflected, let us then Further Reflect that Our Place with Grandmother and Her Body should then be as the Place of Our Cell-Spirits and Their Bodies within Ourselves, that Place being to Harmonize with and Carry Out the Patterns and Rhythms as Given by Grandmother for Her Body, the Living Earth of which we are a Part.

As this year's Time-in-the-Lodges progresses, let us Continue to Contemplate how we might best Harmonize with and carry along Grandmother's Patterns and Rhythms for Her Body, rather than attempting to Subvert and Change and Supplant them as Some Influences would Have us Do.

And let Us Also Prepare Ourselves to Accept and Aid such measures as Grandmother may Use in Ridding Her Body of its Infections and Dis-harmonious Influences.

I Have Said It!
